RSIPF Farewell SIPDP advisor

Officers of the Royal Solomon Islands Police Force (RSIPF) have farewelled Ms Toni Christmas, a Solomon Islands Police Development Program (SIPDP) advisor to the National Criminal Investigation Department at the Rove Police Headquarters in Honiara on 26 September 2019.

A farewell morning tea was organised with the presentation of certificate of appreciation and an RSIPF International Law Enforcement Cooperation Medal to Ms Christmas by the Commissioner of Police, Matthew Varley.

“On behalf of the RSIPF I would to thank you for your high level of commitment and services during your two years as advisor to the Crime Portfolio. The certificate presented to you is in recognition of your commitment and contribution to the capacity development within the RSIPF,” says Commissioner Varley.

Commissioner Varley told Ms Christmas: “You will be long remembered for your worthy input into RSIPF and we sincerely thank you for all your efforts in developing the capacity of the Crime Portfolio during your time as advisor. We wish you all the best in your future endeavours.”

Assistant Commissioner Crime and Intelligence, Ian Vaevaso also echoed the same sentiments shared by the Commissioner of Police about advisor Toni Christmas.
